Our values focus this half term is Service

Hi everyone and welcome to another newsletter. I'm Miss Parkar and I work in nursery. I enjoy working in EYFS as we get to do so many fun and exciting things, like arts and crafts, learning to count in different ways, as well as learning our letter sounds. It's amazing to see how far the children in nursery have come since September. Gosh, how time has flown by, it's already February.

This week in school we have been focusing on history. Each year group was given a decade to focus on to explore the history of Britain in that decade. All the teachers had great fun dressing up in their given ERA. Especially us in early years as we had the 90's. Can you guess who we dressed up as....? it was the Spice girls! We definitely kept the whole school entertained.

Not long now before we break up for half term. I just want to say please continue to do a great job of bringing your children to school on time and ensuring they are picked up on time too.

On that note, hope you all have a lovely weekend, stay safe!

UNICEF Rights of the Child

Article 18: Responsibility of parents

Parents are the main people responsible for bringing up a child. When the child does not have any parents, another adult will have this responsibility and they are called a "guardian". Parents and guardians should always consider what is best for that child. Governments should help them. Where a child has both parents, both of them should be responsible for bringing up the child.

Article 3: Best interests of the child

When adults make decisions, they should think about how their decisions will affect children. All adults should do what is best for children. Governments should make sure children are protected and looked after by their parents, or by other people when this is needed. Governments should make sure that people and places responsible for looking after children are doing a good job.
